

You own your client list

Why is this important?

- You work hard to build and cultivate your client list.
- You can run your business your way and market to your clients the way you feel best fits your brand.
- When you retire, you can sell your book of business to another broker.
- If you decide to change brokerages, you will be able to take your client list with you.

